Actions to stop doing:

- At this point in the project, our team is satisfied with how things are progressing and has not identified any actions that need to be stopped. Our meeting times are working well for everyone, team members are consistently present, and task coordination through a shared Google Doc has been effective. As a result, there are no current practices that are hindering our workflow or productivity.

Actions to start doing:

- The team wants to start meeting with John at a more convenient time for everyone, as right after class often rushes us, and sometimes we lose time for our TA meeting.
- The team wants to start ensuring information across all documents is consistent because conflicting documents will confuse the team.

Actions to keep doing:

- The team wants to keep using our communication channels (text and Discord) because it is very easy to talk to each other and help each other.
- The team wants to keep meeting times at 4pm on Tues and Thurs since that works best for the team. That is the time when most people can attend
- The team wants to keep using meeting notes to keep track of tasks because it helps everyone stay on the same page about what is done and needs to be done.

Work completed:

- Story 1: "As a driver, I want to be able to post rides, so that I can find passengers without having to individually contact riders." [8]
 - rides are posted on the updated board
- Story 3: "As a UCSC student, I want to be able to get rides with other UCSC students so that I feel more safe with the people I am riding with." [5]
 - logins with UCSC emails are checked

Work not completed:

- Story 2: "As a rider, I want to be able to choose a ride, so that I can find a ride without having to individually contact drivers." [5]
 - Riders can see available rides but have to individually contact drivers
